AVIATOR VICTIM OF FATAL CRASH ON MISSION ROAD

Lieutenant Richard H. Dean, of Crissy Field, U. S. Army flyer, was killed early last Friday morning, and his companion, Miss Gertrude Murphy, of Hanover street, Daly City, was seriously injured.

Lieutenant Dean's car was struck by a streetcar as he turned off Mission street into Acton street. Motorman Fred Ludduck, of 189 Crescent avenue, was booked on a technical charge of manslaughter, and was released on $50 bail.

Lieutenant Dean was crushed behind the steering wheel of his automobile. His companion, Miss Murphy, was taken to Mission Emergency hospital and at present writing is still confined to her bed, suffering from cranial and other injuries.

This is another death to occur at a dangerous crossing, in spite of the recently installed beacon signal for the protection of the motorist.

VETERAN FIREMEN'S PICNIC A SUCCESS

The members of the Daly City Vetrean Firemen's Association, their families and friends, journeyed to Nelson's Park, near Menlo Park, last Sunday, where they enjoyed their annual picnic to the utmost.

The picnickers met at the top of the hill, and a large number of automobiles carried the merry crowd to the picnic grounds, where preparations had been made by the committee for the day's entertainment.

There were races for the men and women, boys and girls of the party, and the spirit of friendly rivalry in the contests made them most interesting. Councilman A. J. Bodien acted as starter in the racing contests, and Councilman Julius Twesten assisted in staging many of the events.

There were the usual games and other amusements provided for the entertainment of the picnickers, including dancing, with excellent music.

Bountifully laden lunch baskets made their appearance at the appropriate time, the Firemen providing picnic hams, coffee and lemonade, and if anyone left the grounds hungry, it was his own fault.

The day was one of genuine enjoyment, no accidents being reported, and no doubt those who were fortunate enough to be at Nelson's Park will long remember the Daly City Veteran Firemen's picnic, and will look forward to the picnic to be held next year.

OLD GLORY TO STAGE ANNUAL POPPY DRIVE

The annual V. F. W. Poppy drive will be held in Daly City and vicinity under the auspices of Old Glory Post No. 2044 and Auxiliary, on May 28, 29 and 30.

The name "Buddy Poppy" is given the V. F. W. poppy, and they are all made in government hospitals by the disabled veterans. The veteran who makes the poppy is paid. A certain percentage goes to the Eaton Rapids V. F. W. Home for Veterans, Widows and Orphans, and the profits made by individual Posts and Auxiliaries is used only in relief work, in hospitalization for veterans and among the members of different Posts and their families.

Members of Old Glory Post and Auxiliary should boost their poppy sale, and all who can help sell, as the depression is hitting the veteran and his family as well as others.

Also remember that Old Glory Post and Auxiliary have given help to other people that their own members through their food barrels and with some money turned over to the Welfare Board from their Christmas fund.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars are doing the best they can with what they have—so everybody help. Buy a Buddy Poppy!

W. P. OFFICIALS DISCUSS FUTURE OF COUNTY LINE

The future of the Western Pacific's proposed line up the Peninsula will be determined this week at a series of conferences being held in San Francisco, it has been learned. Arthur Curtiss James, chairman of the board, and Charles Elsey, president, are the conferees.

It is reported that the proposed Peninsula line has become a serious problem to the Western Pacific, in view of economic conditions and tightened railroad credit. This week it is expected the two officials will decide whether or not to ask the Interstate Commerce Commission for another extension of time.

Should this be refused the railroad would be forced either to begin work on the Peninsula line or abandon it completely, charging off rights-of-way purchases to profit and loss.

JEFFERSON P. T. A. INSTALL OFFICERS

Last Tuesday was Fathers' Night at the P. T. A. meeting at Jefferson Union high school. It hadn't been officially designated as such, but it turned out that way. How?

Well, at the previous meeting of the Jefferson Union High School P. T. A. it was decided to have special refreshments on this occasion. Someone asked one of the Dads present what would be most appropriate, and he named "whipped cream banana cake made in at least two layers" as his choice. It was put to a vote and whipped cream banana cake won by a unanimous vote.

At the Fresno convention of the P. T. A. two weeks ago members from the different associations of the Jefferson Union high school district met in committees and at conferences. The spirit of closer co-operation was created and somebody mentioned whipped cream banana cake as the officially designated food especially for Dad at the next meeting in Jefferson High. There were other interests, of course, such as child welfare, etc. But whipped cream banana cake caught even Mother's fancy, and it became a slogan.

So it was decided among the delegates that there should be a joint installation of officers of the P. T. A.'s in Jefferson High district—at least of as many as had not had installation ceremonies, and the others would attend just the same—would take part in the program and would contribute whipped cream banana cake for the occasion.

And contribute they did. And how! Every Mother it seemed that attended the meeting carried with jealous care in her two outstretched arms a big whipped cream banana cake, and Dad tagged along behind. So that before the time for the meeting to begin there were five tables of whipped cream banana cake, each containing specimens with the most artistic decorations. No window display of bakery confections ever equalled it. Some of the cakes showed a departure from the regular banana recipe. Five or six had on the top layer of whipped cream as many as a dozen big, red, sweet, juicy and delicious strawberries, bigger than giant walnuts and red as only California sun-kissed strawberries can be red. And even the arrangement of the cakes on the tables was artistic.

The first part of the evening's program was the installation of the newly elected officers of Crocker, Pershing, Woodrow Wilson and Jefferson High P. T. A.'s, and was held in the auditorium. Mrs. Lillian Landini presided.

Mrs. Martlett, the incoming president of the Seventeenth District, was the installing officer. She complimented the members of the various associations upon the spirit of co-operation shown in meeting together and having a joint installation of officers. "This is the first time I have known of such a meeting in connection with the P. T. A.," she said, "and I am most happy that it has taken place in my own district." The four presidents that were newly installed were Mrs. Erton of General Pershing, Mrs. Walker of Crocker, Mrs. W. W. Woodside of Woodrow

GRAMMAR SCHOOL NOTES OF INTEREST

The track meet between Crocker and Woodrow Wilson resulted in a victory for Woodrow Wilson. The boys won 75 to 16, and the girls 68 to 15.

Through the kindness of Mr. Newman, manager of the Daly City branch of Bank of America, the high and low grades of Woodrow Wilson were allowed to hear the "Back to Prosperity" program sponsored by the Bank of America. Mr. Newman placed his portable radio in the school and the children enjoyed the speeches by Governor Rolph, Al Jolson, Mr. Scott and others.

On Tuesday the children of the Eighth grades received valuable instruction in household chemistry, sanitation and other correlating subjects, through a lecture given by Mr. Davis. His lecture was illustrated by charts.

Wednesday afternoon the Eighth grades had a first hand demonstration of newspaper work. The two classes were taken to the office of the News. The visit was enjoyed by all and proved very instructive.

Tuesday of this week the P. T. A. of Woodrow Wilson and Vista Grande held their regular meeting at the Woodrow Wilson school. Dr. F. P. Callsen gave a very interesting talk on teeth, and Mrs. Woodside, president of the P. T. A., gave her report on the state convention held in Fresno.

P. T. A. PRESIDENTS MEET IN DALY CITY

The unit presidents of the various Parent-Teachers' Associations of San Mateo county were luncheon guests of the four local unit presidents of Daly City in the home of their fourth vice-president, Mrs. S. A. Landini, of Winchester street, last Monday.

After enjoying a most delicious repast, served by Mrs. William P. Bolger of Crocker, Mrs. E. C. Boyle of General Pershing, Mrs. G. M. McIsaac of Jefferson Union high school, and Mrs. G. I. Woodside of Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande Parent-Teachers' Associations, a business meeting was held to make final arrangements for the International Fair to be held in San Mateo Park, Friday, May 20. Everyone is cordially invited to attend this fair and enjoy a fine day's outing and a hot home cooked luncheon and some fine music and other entertainment.

Among the guests were: Mrs. J. V. Brick, of Northbrae, San Bruno; Mrs. C. Dowdell, Bayshore; Mrs. J. Franzien, Bayshore; Mrs. L. W. Prestidge, Brisbane; Mrs. Mabel Urquhart, Millbrae; Mrs. R. Burns, San Mateo; Mrs. J. H. Austin, Ravenswood; Mrs. Philip F. Matzinger and Mrs. Agnes Pope, Salada Beach; Mrs. L. N. Zant, Hayward Park, San Mateo; Mrs. H. Paul Eder, McKinley, Burlingame; Mrs. John A. Peterson, Calvin Coolidge, Burlingame; Mrs. L. G. Owen, San Mateo Union high school; Mrs. I. H. Hedden, Burlingame high school; Mrs. Ray Kelley, Belmont; Mrs. Miles Potter, San Carlos; Mrs. R. S. Dunn, Turnbull; Mrs. William S. Kerr, San Mateo Park; Mrs. H. M. Downs, Lawrence; Mrs. William Doolittle, Hayward Avenue; Mrs. J. E. Walker, Crocker; Mrs. J. E. Davies, San Pedro school, Salada Beach; Mrs. A. B. Cox, Roosevelt, Burlingame; Mrs. E. A. Shappard, Central, San Mateo; Mrs. F. C. Beach, Menlo Park; Mrs. R. L. Holder, Edgemont; Mrs. F. M. Stanger, Peninsula; Mrs. J. R. Spann, McKinley and Coolidge of Burlingame, and president of the Seventeenth District Congress of Parents and Teachers; Mrs. E. I. Bartless, of South San Francisco, newly elected president of the Seventeenth District.

"Accordion King" Will Appear at Local Theatre

Daly City boasts among its residents some of the best accordion players in the country, and the people of this section are good judges of accordion music. A genuine treat is promised in the announcement by Manager Covel of the Daly City Theatre that Guido Deiro, the accordian king, is to appear every Sunday at the Daly City Theatre.

Guido Deiro, who from a street singer became known as the accordion king, has recently concluded a most successful European vaudeville engagement, and his services have been secured by Manager Covel for the enterainment of the music loving residents of Daly City and vicinity.

Deiro, called the Pederewski of the piano accordion, began his career as a wandering urchin in Turin, where he exchanged gay Italian tunes for pennies. Now he is regarded as one of the best paid and most satisfying entertainers on the stage. Manager Covel feels that he fortunate in having booked this exceptional entertainer.

EAGLE BALL TEAM AGAIN VICTORIOUS

The members of the Daly City Eagles' baseball team kept up their winning ways last Sunday morning on the Jefferson Union high school diamond, when they defeated the O'Brien, Sportono & Mitchell team, San Francisco, by the score of 5 to 1.

The game, played early in order to enable some of the boys to attend the Firemen's picnic in the afternoon, was a pitching duel for five innings between the Eagles' consistent pitcher, Ford, and Jester for the poultry boys. Two runs in the sixth and one each in the seventh and eighth innings made the game easy for our boys. Ford in the meantime pitched shutout ball, only to see the opposing team scored an unearned run in the last inning.

Again the entire team played heads-up baseball. Frank Flores was back at third base after an ankle injury, and turned in a good game.

Dont' forget, you baseball fans, to turn out and give the boys a hand. There will be a game this coming Sunday, at the Jefferson Union high school grounds, at 2 P. M., with the fast Municipal Railroad team, who have a string of victories over some of our best country teams:

BANDIT GANG CRACKS CYPRESS LAWN SAFE

Search is being made for a band of safe-crackers, operating in San Mateo county, who last Sunday night drilled a safe in the office of the Cypress Lawn cemetery at Lawndale and robbed it of $322 in currency. The rifled safe was discovered when employes opened the office Monday morning. They reported to Sheriff James J. McGrath's office.

Deputy Sheriffs John Simpkins and Thomas Malorey said they were convinced it was the same men who drilled the safe in the Mount Olivet cemetery office a month ago and obtained $300. The safe crackers entered the Cypress Lawn office by prying a rear window. They were daring, because floodlights bathe the office in light at night, and they worked in view of motorists passing on El Camino Real. Both jobs were perpetrated by a professional gang, the deputies said.

LEGION TO AWARD SCHOOL MEDALS

The meeting held last Friday evening by the members of Daly City Post No. 410, American Legion, was most interesting. Comrade Whitney, Commander of the San Mateo County Council, was a welcome visitor. During the course of the meeting, Comrade Sanders introduced Mr. G. E. Kellogg, of San Francisco, who gave an interesting talk on "The Veterans' Bonus Certificates." His remarks were well received.

During the grammar school graduating exercises, to be held June 2, at the Jefferson Union high school, Daly City Post will again present American Legion school awards to a boy and girl of each of the three graduating classes.

Comrade Crane, district superintendent of schools, is chairman of the committee to make this a success.

For a good time tomorrow night, Saturday, May 21, go to South San Francisco, where the American Legion Post is putting on a dance. "Doc" and his haywire orchestra will furnish the music.

Don't forget to invite your friends to attend the next social and dance, to be given by the Daly City Post on Friday evening, May 27, in Eagles Hall. Everybody is welcome and assured a good time.

During the state convention to be held in Oakland in August, there will be a spectacular night demonstration with fireworks and competitive drills by drum and bugle corps, a great parade, longest and most colorful ever held in Oakland; athletic torunaments, pistol and rifle marksmanship competitions, luncheons, dinners, banquets, and a grand military ball in honor of Legion Commanders, will be a feature of the convention. Business sessions will deal with unemployment, veterans' relief measures, Americanization work, and other important questions, according to an announcement from Don B. Rice, chairman of the publicity committee. The Hotel Oakland, where the executive committee will maintain its offices, will be the convention headquarters hotel, according to an announcement from the committee. Sessions of the convention will be held in the arena of the Oakland Municipal auditorium.

There will be eight sailings of the Gold Star Mothers' Pilgrimage to France during the coming summer, according to American Legion officials. The first was scheduled for May 17, and the last August 17. Gold Star mothers who have not already made the trip and who desire to do so should write directly to the office of the Quartermaster General at Washington, D. C., for application forms, giving complete details of their sons' service records.

A free high jinks, open to all Bay district ex-service men, will be staged under the auspices of San Francisco Post No. 1 of the American Legion on Thursday evening, May 26, at the Civic Auditorium. Police Sergeant William D. Flynn, Past Commander of the Post, who inaugurated the annual monster smokers of San Francisco Post eight years ago, will again preside as master of ceremonies at the May 26 festivities. Forty acts of boxing, wrestling, vaudeville, cabaret, theatrical and radio talent will be presented during the evening, making up a four-hour program.

Department Head Visits Old Glory Auxiliary

Department President Henrietta Mills paid her official visit to Old Glory Auxiliary on May 13. After the meeting refreshments were served, followed by dancing. The Auxiliary was credited with excellent floor work, and its team work in all undertakings complimented. While refreshments were being served, President Ethel Dorn presented to Department President Mills a set of salad forks, matching other silver given by the different Auxiliaries. President Mills then complimented the Post on the excellent work of their Auxiliary. She said the Post should be very proud to have the help and co-operation of such an Auxiliary, and wished continued success.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY

On Saturday evening, Mrs. Lesley Hill, of 59 Miriam street, was very much surprised when a large number of his friends walked in on him. The occasion was his birthday and his wife had planned the celebration for him. The evening was spent in various games and entertainment. Late in the evening dainty refreshments, with large cakes and coffee, were served. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Callsen, Mr. and Mrs. Rae Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Crane, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Tallmadge, Mr. and Mrs. F. Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Prizboroswki, Mr. and Mrs. Al Harrison, Mrs. and Mrs. Ed Trier, and the host and hostess.

COAST BREEDERS ANNOUNCE PLANS FOR FALL RACING

The officers and directors of the Pacific Coast Breeders Association have announced plans for the Fall meeting at Tanforan.

While this means thirty-three days of racing, the Association itself will use only thirty of these days, the other three days being used for the various charities, unemployment funds and community funds of the Bay area. The receipts for these charity days will be lumped into a fund for distribution within the discretion of the Breeders Association.

It has been decided that there will be no purse less than $700, as at present provided, and a list of stakes which are subjoined have been arranged, these to close during the meeting, as the Association has found that the policy of closing its features a few days before the race, while it limits the fields to some extent, at least brings into competition all of the horses at the top of their form at that time.

The experiment of running two stakes in one day which was inaugurated at the meeting just closed, will be tried again in the Fall, and except on such days when stakes of not less than $5,000 added are given, two such features will be run. The Pacific Coast Breeders Association stake for two year olds foaled west of the Continental Divide will be run with an added value of $5,000, and the San Francisco Handicap with an added value of $10,000, will also be a feature of the meeting.

By opening the last of October and finishing early in December, the Association will have closed its session before the money is released for Christmas shopping from the savings banks, and thus the meeting will not in any way interfere with the Christmas trade; in fact, inasmuch as many of the horsemen will remain over for a time it will stimulate various channels of trade during the month of December.

The complete list of stakes and the dates on which they will be run follows:

Saturday, October 29—A. B. Spreckels Handicap, two year olds and upward, $2,000 added, six furlongs; California Handicap, two year olds and upward, $2,000 added, one mile and one sixteenth.

Saturday, November 5 — Pacific Coast Breeders Handicap, two year olds foaled west of the Continental Divide, $5,000 added, six furlongs.

Friday, November 11—Armistice Day Handicap, two year olds, $2,000 added, one mile and seevnty yards.

Saturday, November 12—San Mateo Handicap, two year olds and upward, $2,000 added, six furlongs; San Bruno Handicap, two year olds and upward, $2,000 added, one mile and seventy yards.

Saturday, November 19—San Francisco Handicap, two year olds and upward, $10,000 added, one mile and one-eighth.

Thursday, November 24—Thanksgiving Day Handicap, two year olds and upward, $5,000 added, one mile and one-eighth.

Saturday, November 26—Elks Handicap, two year olds and upward, $2,000 added, six furlngs.

Saturday, November 26 — Hon. Angelo J. Rossi Handicap, two year olds and upward, $2,000 added, one mile and one-sixteenth.

Saturday, December 3—Alameda Handicap, two year olds and upward, $2,000 added, one mile and one-sixteenth; Farewell Handicap, two year olds and upward, $2,000 added, six furlongs.

ROBBER SUSPECTS PICKED UP FOLLOWING COLMA BURGLARY

As the result of a robbery at the National Garage in Colma, last Tuesday night, four men are being held for investigation regarding the possession of a radiator taken from a rear room of the garage. The men arrested declared that three radiators found in the rear of their automobile had been given them by the owner of the garage, to which the owner entered a strenuous denial. It is believed that the accused men may have been connected with other robberies in Colma and Daly City recently.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC DEPOT AT SOUTH CITY ROBBED

Southern Pacfic Railroad Company detectives and police are investigating a robbery last Tuesday night at the South San Francisco railroad station, when about $59 was taken from a safe in the office. Officers are inclined to the belief that the job was done by someone who knew the combination to the safe, the door of which was found open when employes entered the office at midnight.

A GOOD DESCRIPTION

A patient who complained of digestive troubles was told by a specialist that he was drinking too much.

"Well," said the patient, "what am I to tell the wife?"

The doctor thought for a few minutes and then said: "Tell her you are suffering from syncopation."

The patient did as he was told.

"What is syncopation?" asked the wife.

"I don't know," said the husband, "but that is what he said."

When her husband had gone out, the wife looked up the word in the dictionary and found it meant "irregular movement from bar to bar."—Winnipeg Tribune.

JEFFERSON UNION HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Students of Jefferson received a glimpse of that great silvery bulk, the dirigible Akron, last Friday while it cruised in the vicinity of South San Francisco soon after its flight from the San Diego air base.

Though seen at a distance of about four miles, the tremendous bulk of the largest air-craft in the world could easily be noticed. The appearance of the ship caused a great deal of comment among the school spectators.

Mr. Ferguson allowed the students to go out on the school grounds in order to view the craft and obtain the thrill of a lifetime.

Looking at the airship reminds one of the Press Club hot-dog sale, which will be held tomorrow.

An enjoyable radio assembly took place Monday.

Students listened in on a "Good Times" program from San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Among those who spoke and entertained were Governor Rolph, Al Jolson Attorney Joe Scott, and Eddie Cantor.

A demonstration of physical fitness and a talk intended to inspire it were the features of the senior program in assembly last Tuesday.

Mr. R. M. Schall, instructor of boxing at Stanford University, was the demonstrator. Among his exhibitions he tapped the punching bag rhythmically blindfolded, jumped rope sitting down, skipped rope, and tap-danced.

After his physical demonstration, Mr. Schall spoke on the importance of physical fitness.

In his talk he listed eight rules which should be followed. They are: 1. Keep the rules. 2. Keep faith in your fellow men. 3. Keep your temper. 4. Keep fit. 5. Keep a stout heart in defeat. 6. Keep your pride in victory. 7. Play the game. 8. Keep a clean mind and a healthy body.

Friday, May 13, placed its unlucky jinx over sixty-seven juniors and seniors who took the Subject "A", five hundred word essay, on that date.

The test consisted of a five hundred word essay written on any of fifteen topics listed by Mrs. Metcalf. Three periods were allowed in which to write the essay.

Less than ten errors were required in order to pass, with six for a college recommendable grade.

Rose Merlo, C. S. F. president, had the most perfect paper, gramatically, with only two slight errors which might have been overlooked. Katherine Parodi also made only two slips.

Several awards have been made in the typing classes.

In first year typing, the following were awarded pins after doing 25 words per minute: Faye Barnes, Lucille Dietrich, Hazel Liljeberg, Patricia Scali, Carl Wickbom, Harry Willis, and Rose Dolan.

Second year awards for 40 words per minute go to the following: Angelina Casentini, Attilio Ghiotto, Mario Marsili, Leila Silacco, and Patricia Taylor.

The winners of the progressive typing contest held by Miss Smith were: Claude Hamlin, Marie Denevi, Angelina Massini, Juanita Merlo, Mario Marseille, Harry Willis, Hazel Liljeberg, and Catherine Aiello.

The boys' inter-class tennis tournament is rapidly nearing completion, with the sophomore and freshman champs already picked and the juniors and seniors coming to the end of their elimination contests too.

Marvin Schlesinger took the sophomore championship by virtue of his victory over Bob Smith, with Tom Bergin and Wendell left to decide the frosh lead.

The juniors have three contenders left. Jim Kennedy, Roland Petrocchi, and Clarence Andersen all have won their matches so far, with Kennedy given the edge to win out.

Richie Oppermann, Jim Welsh, and Albert Boynton are still fighting for the senior crown, with Boynton favored to take it.

The interclass winners will have been picked by the end of the week, and the finals for the school championship will be played off next week.

Josephine Kennedy won the girls' tennis championship last week when she defeated Gladys Eldrup, junior leader, on the court. Josephine is a sophomore, and won the net crown last year also.

The winner took two sets in a row by identical scores, 6-3.

WOMAN'S NOSE BROKEN WHEN CAR GOES IN DITCH

Mrs. Blanche Dicks, of San Francisco, suffered a broken nose shortly before midnight, Sunday, and two others were cut and bruised when the woman's auto went into a ditch beside the Bayshore highway at Belmont. The others were Jack Dicks, 21, a clerk, and Eld Acosta, 33, an engineer. Mrs. Dicks told police another auto forced her machine from the highway, after bumping a third car.

At various times an Ohio woman has married, divorced and re-married two different men, thus illustrating that some folks will try anything twice.

Wilson, and Mrs. S. W. McIsaacs of Jefferson Union High School.

Each association contributed one item to the program, and all performed most delightfully. For Crocker a group of pupils sang, with Miss Mosconi as accompanist, as did also a group of pupils from Woodrow Wilson. Mrs. Burns, leader of the Singing Mothers of the Seventeenth District, entertained the audience with a group of vocal solos, and Miss Johnson, representing Visitacion Valley, played a piano solo with unusual skill and technique. Two darling youngsters, Laverne and Lois Herring, from General Pershing school, gave two unaccompanied dances in costume, and convinced the entire audience of their charm.

Mrs. Spann, the outgoing president of the Seventtenth District, presented official pins to the retiring presidents of General Pershing (Mrs. Bowles) and Crocker (Mrs. Bolger) as an expression of appreciation for their services.

Mrs. Stella Jensen was presented to the meeting by Mrs. Landini, and complimented the leaders of the P. T. A. upon their splendid work.

Principal James Ferguson expressed an official welcome on behalf of the high school to all of the P. T. A. members present.

The proceedings opened with the salute to the flag led by Mrs. James Ferguson, and closed with the singing of the official P. T. A. song, accompanied by Mrs. Secor.

During the installation ceremony Mrs. Adolph Gehringer presided at the piano.

The audience then adjourned to the Senior Room to partake of refreshments. Mrs. James Ferguson, principal of the high school, acted as toastmaster, and in turn presented to the assembled members and guests Mr. Mat Jensen, Dr. Callsen, Mrs. L. W. Prestige, Mrs. George Bacon, Mrs. Mabel Urton, Mrs. J. E. Davies, Miss Hunt, Mrs. J. E. Walker, Mrs. Pope, Dr. A. A. Shaghoian, and Mr. Adolph Gehringer, each of whom responded briefly with appropriate remarks.

The spirit of harmony and enthusiasm evidenced on this occasion augurs well for the success of the P. T. A. movement throught the whole district. Large delegations came from Salada Beach, Visitacion Valley and Brisbane Associations. The attendance was approximately 350—the largest of any P. T. A. gathering so far in the district.

BRISBANE NOTES

The new school trustees who have been elected for Brisbane and Bayshore school district are Joseph Franzien, of Bayshore, and L. W. Prestidge, of Brisbane.

The members for the Brisbane P. T. A. who attended the installation ceremonies at Bayshore were Mrs. L. W. Prestidge, president; Mrs. C. W. Coffin, vice-president; Mrs. J. A. Kenney and Mrs. Fred Coffin. Mrs. E. I. Bartlett, of South San Francisco, vice-president of the Seventeenth district, was the installing officer.

The regular meeting of the Brisbane P. T. A. will be held at the school on Thursday afternoon, May 26, at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Rose Walker, of the Second district, will be a guest speaker. Miss Victoria Pasche, Girl Scout leader of Troop 15, will also be a speaker.

The many friends of the newly elected assistant fire chief, Melvin Van Kirk, and Captain F. A. Schmidt are congratulating them and wishing them much success in their respective offices.

Chief L. W. Coffin, of San Benito Way, will sponsor a whist party on Friday evening, May 27, at 8 o'clock, in his home, for the benefit of the Brisbane fire department. The proceeds of this whist are to be used to pay off the debt on the fire apparatus.

ECONOMIST TO ADDRESS CALIFORNIA BANKERS

What business may expect of Congress and the latter's obligation to the country in assisting in a return to normal conditions will be the theme of Dr. William Bennett Munro at the forty-first annual convention of the California Bankers' Association, meeting in San Francisco May 26 to 28, at the Palace Hotel.

Dr. Munro, who will be one of the featured speakers at the opening day's session, is a member of the executive council of the California Institute of Technology. He is a noted economist and for a number of years was a member of the Harvard faculty. He has served as chairman of the division of history, government and economics at that institution. He is as frequent contributor to various magazines on subjects pertaining to economics and is the author of a number of books, some of which are used as text books in universities and colleges. He is chairman of the executive board of the Security First National Bank, Los Angeles.

According to E. V. Frick, chairman of the general committee on arrangements for the coming convention, the interest in the three-day meet evidenced to date assures a large attendance.

Just to show he wasn't sulking over his salary cut, Babe Ruth hit two homers in the first game of the season.

PARKMAN CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATE

"Now that the Presidential Electors and the Freeholders have been elected, the voters of San Mateo county will turn their thoughts to the Primary election, when they will vote on a State Senator and an Assemblyman, in addition to several county officials," states Harry L. Parkman in confirming his candidacy for election as State Senator for the new Twenty-first district.

"Reapportionment, which was finally passed by the state legislature, after it had been adopted and held up by referendum and then voted by the people, gives San Mateo county a Senator by itself, as well as an Assemblyman," says Mr. Parkman.

"Heretofore we have shared our Senator with Santa Cruz and San Benito counties, but now we will have one of our own. The law provides that no county shall have more than one Senator, but that, as there are forty-seven counties and only forty Senators, three of the smaller counties may be grouped together. This provision of the law gives one State Senator to Los Angeles county with a population of approximately 2,208,492 and one Senator to groups of three small mountain counties, for example El Dorado, Amador and Alpine, with a joint population of 17,060.

"Whether San Mateo county should be grouped with metropolitan cities, or with the so-called agricultural counties may be open to argument, but there is no argument that the 1933 session will be one of the 'hottest' and most important from the viewpoint of the taxpayers, since the King Tax Bill fight, and the advantages of sending a representative of experience are most apparent.

"It hardly seems necessary for me to state a platform, because my position has been so completely established in each succeeding campaign I have made—1926, 1928 and 1930.

"I shall again, however, summarize my position by stating briefly that I shall always work and fight for whatever appears to be for the good of San Mateo county. I believe that I am elected to represent the taxpayers of my county, whether they pay directly or indirectly, and I shall always give them the best that is in me."

HAND SIGNAL NEGLECT CAUSE OF ACCIDENTS

More and better hand signals mean fewer accidents—the giving of proper signals when slowing down, stopping or preparing to make a turn is a vital part of the safety code for the motorist, but a too frequently neglected one.

These are highlights of a statement on the subject of hand signals by the Public Saftey Department of the California State Automobile Association. The motorists' organization declares that accident records show many instances where failure to give signals is the cause of a serious smashup. The statement continues:

"The California Vehicle Act requires motorists, before starting, turning, or stopping, to first determine whether they can do so with saftey, and then to give a plainly visible signal. The law requires that a proper signal shall be given continuously during the last fifty feet before stopping or turning. There is a good reason why signals should thus be given well in advance. When a signal is not given until immediately before stopping or turning, other traffic may not be able to slow down or stop in time to avoid collision.

"Signals are necessary not only to let the car behind know what the driver intends to do, but they are often necessary for the information and protection of an approaching motorist who may intend to make a turn himself, or who may be entering from an intersecting road. Signals are also important for the protection of the driver himself when he plans to slow down, stop, or alter his direction.

"Often a driver waiting at an intersection for a chance to enter the other road is deprived of an opportunity because a driver approaching from the right or left and intending also to make a turn has failed to make the required signal. In such cases the failure to signal is a clear violation of highway courtesy.

"Signals should be given clearly and unmistakably, with the hand and arm extended in such a way as to be plainly visible to other drivers. Too many drivers merely droop a hand an inch or two outside the car in a way which requires other drivers to guess at what is meant."

Legion Pledges Aid to 'Good Times' Movement

The force of 10,000 Posts of the American Legion scattered throughout the country was pledged last Saturday to the movement of the Bank of American to help in the "Back to Good Times" movement of that institution. The pledge was given by B. W. Gearhart, of Fresno, Junior Past Commander of the Legion and one of the founders of the organization.

Mr. Gearhart spoke from Los Angeles over stations KFI and KGO. He told of the campaign of the Legion which in sixty days produced 675,000 jobs for unemployed throughout the country.

"Now that Bank of America is engaged in a similar beneficial movement, caluculated to hasten the return of 'good times,' we of the Legion are happy indeed to throw behind it the force and influence of the more than million members of this great patriotic society," he said.

"As an evidence of the high approval of the American people and as an expression of confidence in the good purpose of the bank's 'good times' programs, the National Commander of the American Legion, Henry L. Stevens, was impelled to telegraph Mr. A. P. Giannini in these words: 'Please accept my congratulations on the constructive action you are taking in the effort to restore confidence and prosperity throughout California by putting men and dollars to work. I congratulate California on its forward leadership.' In the sentiment of this telegram the 70,000 California Legionnaires heartily concur.

"Hand in hand with Bank of America, the American Legion will continue to carry on it war against depression, until one million unemployed persons have been put to work. There is very little wrong with our country in its economic set-up that could not be cured by a revival of our confidence. Faith and confidence alone will start people who have money to spending that money on things that they need."

ABOUT WOMEN

Miss Eunice Apperson of Selma, Ala., believed to be the only woman sports writer in the South, has been a member of the Selma Times-Journal staff for four years.

Mrs. Sarah Rebecca Curtis, oldest merchant in Rusk, Texas, has completed her fiftieth year in business there.

For the first time in the history of the United States Public Health Service a woman was appointed as a surgeon when President Hoover named Dr. Estella Ford Warner, of the state of Washington, to this post.

Eileen Wearne, Australia's greatest woman sprinter, is expected to make a strong bid for the 100-meter title in the 192 Olympics, in which she will represent the commonwealth.

Miss Marie Warmbler, rolling a total score of 658, broke the world singles record in the woman's international bowling tournament in St. Louis.

Approximately 450 women in this country hold air pilots' licenses, according to Department of Commerce records.

Miss Alice Lee Grosjean of Baton Rouge, La., secretary of state, assumed the governorship as the only woman ever to take over the office upon the departure of Governor King for the annual governors conference in Richmond, Virginia.

Donna Damerel, one of the stars of "Myrt and Marge," has been adjudged the most beautiful radio star in the Middle West.

Competing against leading shoe designers of the country, Mrs Zula C. South, widow, of Birmingham, Ala., won the first prize of $500 in the National Shoe Design Contest, sponsored by the Kid Leather Tanners Association.

Miss Matilda Moisant, who in 1911 became America's first licensed woman flier, now has a coffee plantation in El Salvador.

Mrs. Floretta McCutcheon of Pueblo, Colorado, is perhaps the outstanding woman bowler in the United States and a holder of many titles.

Enforcement of the game laws in Covington County, Miss., was charged to a woman for the first time in the state's history when Mrs. Emma Cook was appointed game warden to fill a vacancy.

Mrs. Edward Pilsbury, chairman of the Women's Old Regular Democratic Association of New Orleans is the only woman that will cast a vote for the state of Louisiana at the National Democratic Convention.

INJURED WOMAN GIVEN FIRST AID BY WORKMEN

Mrs. A. M. Morris, of 5865 Merriewood Drive, Oakland, is thankful that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company trains its employees in first aid. While busy on a chore outside her home a short time ago, she fell and dislocated a kneecap. Peter Owen, a P. G. and E. pipe fitter, was working nearby and saw the accident. Carrying Mrs. Morris into the house, he set and bandaged the dislocated knee so skillfully that a physician who was summoned complimented him on "an exceptionally good job of first aid, as a knee-cap is a very difficult replacement." Owen is a member of the Berkeley district's first-aid team.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S CLUBS

No movement having for its object the betterment of rural life is more worthy of encouragement and support than that of forming and maintaining boys' and girls' clubs. It is gratifying to observe that the movement is spreading rapidly and that more that a million and a half young people on the farms of the country are enrolled in clubs.

In a recent survey it was shown that civic bodies, fair committees, bankers and individual business men in many states are taking notice of the club movement, and are fostering it through the offering of prizes, scholarships, trips and other rewards for efficiency shown by farm boys and girls in carrying out the various projects included in the club program.

Club activities not only serve to prepare young people for their life work, if they choose to stay on the farm, but the conducting of their own meetings develops qualities of leadership and confidence in themselves. Even those who enter other pursuits are better fitted for their future careers by the discipline and training which are inseparable from club membership.

Every rural community should cooperate with home demonstration agents and other extension workers in promoting boys' and girls' clubs. It is a splendid enterprise, which will have a most beneficial effect upon farm life in the future.

It looks as if there is to be a third party, with Senator Huey Long as its only member.

SIGNED BUT NOT READ

Officials and others who have the habit of signing documents without reading them may take warning from what recently happened to Comrade Isakhanov, director of a Soviet government shoe factory in Tiflis.

A Russian periodical called The Crockodile is just now waging a campaign against inefficient officials, and its editors suspected that Iskahanov was not sufficiently diligent on his job. By some means it was arranged to have a fake letter presented to him for signature, along with routine documents placed on his desk every day. Isahnanov fell into the trap, and this is what he signed without reading it:

"Through some misunderstanding I was promoted to the post of factory director. I seldom go to the workshops. I do everything I should not do, and do not what I should. I am a fool. Everybody knows that and I inform you as well. I am ready to sign any paper without reading it. I am proving this to you herewith. (Signed) G. Isakhanov."

The Crockodile published the letter and razzed the unlucky shoe factory head so unmercifully that it is said he will be forced out of his job and kicked out of the Communist party as well.

Moral: Don't sign anything before reading it—and seldom sign it afterward.

A movie critic suggests that disappointed scenario writers might attain popularity by turning to obscenarios.

THE USE OF WORDS

How often do we find difficulty in thinking of just the right word to express a certain idea? Even the greatest writers must often stop to weigh their words in order to hit upon the most appropriate one, while few speakers can observe all the niceties of expression without writing out their speeches and memorizing them beforehand.

This is not due to any lack of words in the English language, however. Possibly is may be a result of our having too many to choose from. The latest unabridged dictionaries contain more than 400,000 words, and the list is increasing constantly.

Noah Webster's first dictionary, published in 1828, contained only about 70,000 words; the edition of 1864 included 114,000, and that of 1890 about 175,000, as compared with the 400,000 recognized words today.

Yet President Wilson, who was one of the foremost masters of English, in seventy-five different public addresses used a total of only 6,221 words. In three of his published books, however, he used about 40,000 different words. This shows that vastly more words are used in writing than in speaking.

A leading lexicographer estimates that the educated person of fair ability understands on the average about 50,000 words, but uses only a small part of that number in either speaking or writing. The mass of people know and use less than 8,000 words out of the 400,000 available.

An interesting experiment is to inspect a few pages of an unabridged dictionary and count how many words out of a hundred you are really familiar with, both as to spelling and meaning. Try it.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

That manufacturers who are persistent advertisers are the ones who enjoy the greatest business. They don't overlook the fact that a business can not succeed without the aid of advertising.

Modern manufacturers realize that they must tell about their products through the printed page, not once in a while, but all the while, or nobody will know them.

It takes persistent advertising to make people know a product and not forget it.

Quality, well advertised, is the world's best seller. People know well advertised lines and want to know them better.

Truthful advertising is the power that keeps the wheels of business moving. When advertising stops, the wheels stand still and business is dead.

People demand well advertised products. A concern that can't meet the demand of the public is at the end of its business life. Only the manufacturers who are persistent advertisers will survive for years to come.

Truthful advertising will build a business. Lack of it will break a business.

Present day counterfeiters might plead in extenuation that folks must have something to use for money.

A fashion expert says men should wear bright clothes this summer. Well, ours are shiny enough.

A PECULIAR PEOPLE

One of the most peculiar or religious sects is the Doukhobors, members of which have recently clashed again with the authorities in Canada, as the result of parading nude in protest against their expulsion from certain communities.

At Thrums, British Columbia, recently eighty-four men and thirty-three women were arrested in a single day, after resisting the police, who finally subdued them by spraying "itch powder" on their naked bodies.

Aside from their hobby of going without clothing, the Doukhobors are said to be unobjectionable, being ordinarily quiet, honest and industrious people.

Their religious and political views are primitive and communistic. They accept certain portions of the Bible, but have no preachers or priests. When they assemble for prayer, all members are considered equal. They have no ceremonies at marriages, which are contracted on conscience only. Wives and husbands are "sisters" and "brothers"; parents are addressed as "old man" and "old woman." They do not approve use of the labor of animals.

The Doukhobors migrated to Canada in 1898 from Russia, where the sect originated about 200 years ago, and where it had been subjected to governmental persecutions at various times.

To anyone not inspired with fervent religious zeal, both Russia and Canada would seem rather cold countries in which to practice the habit of going without clothes.

ELECTRICITY ON FARMS

In spite of the conditions which have prevailed during the last two and a half years, the extension of electric service to farms of the United States has made considerable progress. The use of current by individual farmers to whom it has been available has also materially increased.

One illustration of this trend is given by the Alabama Power Company in a recent statement to the effect that in the past five years that company has built 1,781 miles of rural electric line to serve 7,416 customers in sixty-four of the sixty-seven counties of the state.

It is further stated that farmers of Alabama evidently appreciate this service and have found its use profitable, as is indicated by their increasing average use of the service. This increased use has made possible a lowering of the rates, so that whereas in 1926 the farm users paid an average of 7.46 cents per kilowatt hour, in 1931 the average rate was 6.29 cents, representing a decline of 15.7 per cent, in spite of the fact that rural lines were being continuously extended to more thinly populated areas.

Similar developments have taken place in many other states, and there is no doubt that the next decade or two will bring about a general use of electricity on the farms of the country. This will immeasurably raise the standards of rural living through providing the conveniences and comforts now enjoyed by the urban population.

In the matter of declaring a further moratorium on war debts it looks like Europe has beaten us to it.

SIDELIGHTS

Discovery of a process for extracting gosoline from cotton seed was reported to the recent American Chemical Society convention in New Orleans. If the scientists would discover a process for extracting the tax from gasoline it would be even more helpful to the long-suffering motorist.

Another "smallest baby in the world" has been found. Baby Mercer of Ward's Station, N. C., weighed 12 ounces at birth; at three weeks old she weighed only 8 ounces, but was said to be thriving on two medicine droppers of milk every two hours.

Name oddities reported by the Pathfinder: Humbug Chemical Co. makes bug poison at Mebane, N. C. Tony Horn is a Northwestern University cheer leader. A Leake is secretary to Mr. Lamb in Nappanee, Ind., Dr. Cleaver is an Akron surgeon, and Dr. Aker is a Minneapolis dentist.

An exchange prints the news that the LOINS Club in Columbus, Ga., will wear all cotton clothes this summer. But if they wear only loinclothes, a la Gandia, it won't reduce the cotton surplus very much.

The opening gun at Concord in 1775 was characterized by Emerson as "the shot heard round the world." On the 157th anniversary of the Concord skirmish, which was observed a few days ago, Governor Ely of Massachusetts was present at the firing of such a shot. The report of a pistol was transmitted by radio from Schenectady to Holland, relayed to Java, to Australia and back to Schenectady in one-eight of a second.

William J. Burns, famed sleuth, who died recently at the age of 70, did not have a particularly high opinion of his profession. He said: "Private detectives as a class are the biggest lot of blackmailing theives that ever went unwhipped of justice."

"Baron" Paucci, vaudeville midget, is 3 feet, 1 inch tall; his wife, a diving beauty, is 5 feet, 8 inches. To the pair was recently born in Memphis a baby daughter weighing 5 pounds, 11 ounces. But the couple are estranged through jealousy, although the wife declares she still loves her diminutive spouse. She said: "Women were always picking him up and telling him how cute he was."

At the age of 102, Mrs. Lydia Ann Baker of Lima, Pa., still takes an interest in what is going on, and has decided views concerning current problems. She has come out in opposition to prohibition, but favors the re-election of President Hoover and the re-establishment of the whipping post for criminals.

ELECTRIC LAMP USED TO HELP CATCH RARE FISH

An electric lamp is being used by San Francisco scientists on board the Templeton Crocker yacht Zaca in their efforts to capture marine curiosities in the waters off the west coast of Mexico for the Steinhart Aquarium and other institutions. The lamp, in the center of a lattice-like box, is lowered to a depth of 3,000 feet and rare fish, attracted by the light, enter the box and can't get out.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK?

By Edson R. Waite, Shawnee, Okla.

George C. Hardy, publisher of the Ypsilanti, Mich., Daily Press, says:

"The American housewife is coming to be the world's greatest advertiser.

"First thought of what advertising really is prompts you to label this statement as ridiculous, but if you will stop to consider the fact that every person is constantly advertising by his every move, his speech, his relationship with fellow men, in every wakeful moment of his life—and frequently in his sleeping moments—you will begin to agree with my statement.

"How do American housewives advertise? I'll tell you. Just choose any business corner on a Saturday morning, the day after all the grocery and meat specials have appeared in the papers and you will see how they advertise. They advertise their thrift and their good judgment and their business acumen, their interest in life and their love for their families by selecting with care the best food for the Sunday dinner that money can buy, and they do their selecting at the stores which have proven their worth, their dependability, and their willingness to serve, and their right to share public confidence.

"And why do American housewives advertise their modern methods of buying to advantage in this way? Simply because the grocer and the meat man and the clothier and the apparel store and the national manufacturer have taught them, through the advertising pages of newspapers and magazines that advertised goods have come to be the best goods.

"They have found that the reason it pays the manufacturer and the merchant to advertise is that it pays the consumer to buy advertised merchandise."

BREAKING THE ATOM

For years scientists have sought to break the atom, a feat which has just been accomplished by two British physicists, Drs. Crockroft and Walton, at Cambridge University, according to a London press dispatch.

While this does not mean much to the layman, it is hailed as one of the most notable scientific triumphs of recent years. Much speculation has been indulged in respecting what would happen if the atom were broken. Some predicted that a tremendous source of energy would thereby be made available, while extremists feared it would cause a world explosion.

According to Dr. Crockroft, what really resulted was the changing of hydrogen atoms to helium. This did develop a considerable amount of force, but apparently nothing to worry about, so far as blowing up this little planet of ours is concerned.

ELECTRIC EYE FOR BEACONS

The "electric eye" is going into the air service. The aeronautical branch of the Department of Commerce plans to use the device to turn on airways beacons at the approach of darkness and turn them off again when natural light becomes sufficient for flying. Heretofore the beacons have been switched on and off at specified times, regardless of atmospheric conditions.

Increased BUYING POWER of the dollar justifies the return to normal spending

Thoughtful people all over California are returning to normal buying habits—and they are getting some of the greatest values of their lives. Building materials, automobiles, clothing and high grade merchandise of every kind are being sold at temptingly low prices. Now is the time to take full advantage of the increased purchasing power of the dollar, stimulate every line of business, and return the unemployed to their jobs. Even reduced incomes are balanced by corresponding reductions in the prices of nearly all commodities. There is no excuse for not satisfying one's normal needs. Prosperity depends largely upon both banked and expended money. Until idle money circulates freely, unemployment will continue to be with us. The return of good times is strictly up to each one of us. Think it over.

WE BACK UP

—This statement with facts: that statistics from the Census Department shows that the average number in an American family is four and one-fifth. We wonder if the one-fifth is father.

Another statement we'll back up is: that if we do the repair work on your car that it won't be done like a schoolboy washes his ears—we'll make a thorough job of it; and when we start on your job we don't waste our time looking for a wrench and then try to find a nut to fit the wrench.

"LOVE TIME" SCHEDULED FOR THE GEARY THEATRE, MAY 23

Produced in San Francisco and presented here for the first time in the United States will be the distinction attending the presentation of "Love Time" when that successful European operetta opens at the Geary Theatre Monday night, May 23.

"Love Time" was originally titled "Die Schonen Rivalin" (The Lovely Lady) and was premiered in Berlin, where it attracted wide attention as the first operetta composed by an American to have been presented on a German stage. Written by Dr. Hans Siegfried Linne of the U. S. A., it was produced under his musical direction. The piece had a long engagement in Berlin and for three years was presented with marked success throughout Europe.

"Love Time" is typically a Viennese operetta in intimate form. Its delightful score boasts of no less than five distinct song hits with the alluring waltz number, "Tonight I'm Yours" outstanding. A rousing drinking song, "Wine, Women and Song," features the last of the three acts in which the piece is staged. "Lover's Lane," "Haidee," and "Lovely Summer Night" are also numbers which come easily to whistling lips.

An all-star cast of principals supported by an unusually well-voiced chorus will appear in the operetta. The prima donna role will be sung by Adele Crane, Australian songbird, with Raymond Marlowe and Marie Wells co-featured and Nathan Stewart also in an important role. Karl Kroneke will play "straight" and the comedy will be taken care of by Howard Watson, Barry Oliver and Myrtis Crinley, with the latter two and the chorus seen in dance numbers originated and staged by George Cunningham, well remembered for his dancing choruses in operettas from "Castles in the Air" to "The Desert Song."

AUTO FUEL WASTE

We are getting only a small fraction of the power contained in the gasoline we are burning up in automobiles, trucks, busses, motor boats and airplanes, according to many leading experts.

Lieutenant-Commander G. N. Noville, famous North Pole and trans-Atlantic flyer, who was the first general superintendent of the United States air mail, declares that our automobile engines give in transportation only 5 or 6 per cent of the heat-power created by the fuel, trucks and busses 7 or 8 per cent and motor boats and airplanes about 10 per cent. He says that any company operating 10 tri-motor planes on a 10-hour a day basis is losing more than $60,000 a year on fuel alone.

Present gasoline engines employ what is called the Otto cycle, which dates back to their origin. The Diesel cycle, or principle, to employ cheap fuel oil, is making great headway in superseding gasoline engines, especially in the larger units. Now comes the Schwartz cycle, which increases vastly the efficiency of gasoline or allows the use of inexpensive fuel oil in ordinary gasoline engines.

The Schwartz cycle, now being elaborately tested at New York University following exhaustive tests by other scientific authorities, gives great promise in the direction of economy. If it proves itself as leading engineering bodies and technical editors believe it will, it will save many millions a year.

This will mean cheaper automotive land, air and water transportation, with pleasant dividend surprises for investors in transport companies, besides the elimination of the deadly fire peril through the increased use of non-volatile fuels.

CALIFORNIA NEWS REVIEW

Governor Rolph has appointed Dr. Warren B. Davis of Long Beach to the board of osteopathic examiners, in place of Dr. A. V. Kalt of Pasadena.

The annual convention of the California Holstein Breeders' Association adjourned at Modesto with the election of V. F. Dolcini of Davis as president, succeeding William R. Harriman of Los Angeles. D. T. Batchelder, Santa Maria, first vice-president; Mark Borrow, Springville, second vice-president, and R. E. Longwell of Millbrae, secretary-treasurer, were the other officers chosen.

Alpine County in the high Sierra, California's smallest county population area, boasted a record increase in marriage. Out of 9307 marriages recorded throughout the state during the first three months of the present year, only one was credited to Alpine County. But this lone marriage was a record, for not a single wedding was performed during the same period of time last year.

Award of contracts totaling nearly $450,000 for the Sunnyvale naval air station, has been announced by the Navy Department. The contracts include Helium Company, Inc., Louisville, Ky., $133,500 for the helium purification plant; R. E. McKee, Los Angeles, $165,700 for industrial buildings. The Navy also awarded to Allen Bros. Inc., of Los Angeles, a contract of $1447 for repairs to the tower crane at the destroyer base, San Diego.

Offices of two county supervisors, two Superior judges and a State assemblyman will be voted upon at Merced county's next election—the State primary, August 30. It will be the fourth time local voters have gone to the polls this year. School, city and presidential primary elections have been completed; the State primary and the general election in November will conclude the five elections of 1932.

California cities and counties spent $54,000,000 on street, highway and bridge construction and upkeep during the last fiscal year, it was revealed in a report by State Controller Riley. These expenditures were in addition to $31,380,337 devoted strictly to construction, reconstruction and maintenance of the State highway system, making a grand total of more than $85,000,000 used during the fiscal year for betterment of road and thoroughfare conditions.

United States naval authorities have announced that San Francisco has been chosen as one of the three national educational centers for reserve officers. Beginning June 15, 2000 officers will be enabled to continue their naval education through a correspondence school at the Naval Reserve there. All reservists in the Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fourteenth Naval districts, which includes all America west of the Rocky Mountains, will be eligible for the courses.

Charles Todd of San Francisco was elected president of the California Municipal Traffic League at the recent convention at Santa Cruz, of the league and the State Committee on Public Safety. Other officers elected were: James E. Davis of Los Angeles, vice-president; J. V. Brererton of Berkeley, secretary, and J. Allen Davis of Los Angeles, treasurer. The joint convention went on record as opposed to "traffic-tag fixing", and also recommended improvement of automobile operators' examinations.

While California traffic fatalities increased 8.7 per cent during 1931 over the year previous, continued success of the School Traffic Patrol was demonstrated by a decrease in San Francisco child traffic fatalities during 1926-1931 of 63 per cent. This contrast of figures was made public at the opening session of the Motor Vehicle Conference of California at Santa Cruz recently by Percy E. Towne, a director of the California State Automobile Association, in launching a new statewide program to bring greater traffic safety to California streets and highways.

One of the largest sources of illegal narcotic supply in the bay region was uncovered by State Narcotic Agents under Chief Joseph Andersón recently. Raiding a farm on the Soda Springs road near Napa, the agents arrested Joseph Nieves, a Porto Rican, seized a large quantity of marihuana prepared for sale, and discovered an acre and a half field of growing marihuana. Nieves was taken to jail at Napa and was booked on charges of sale and possession under the State poison law. The raid was preceded by an agent of the department who, succeeded in purchasing three pounds of the drug from Nieves.

The town of Winthrop, one-time thriving mining community near Redding, has been officially dropped from the government's map as the postoffice was ordered abandoned.

According to George L. Winright, assistant farm adviser of Imperial county, alfalfa management studies recently completed by nine growers indicate that at least five tons per acre must be produced to make alfalfa pay. Alfalfa comprises 45 per cent of all the cultivated area of Imperial Valley, says Mr. Winright.

Fred C. Snodgrass, formerly with the New York Giants and nationally known old-time ball player, was elected president of the Ventura County Prune and Apricot Growers' Association, as well as being made a director of the California organization of the same name.

Appointment of forty-nine city and county officials, including several mayors, as members of the advisory council of the State Tax Research Bureau was announced by Fred E. Stewart, member of the State Board of Equalization and vice-chairman of the research bureau. County supervisors, assessors, auditors, tax collectors and school superintendents are included in the group, along with representatives of the League of California Municipalities.

The average cost of producing walnuts in Orange county last year, exclusive of interest on investment, was $109.51 per acre, according to a survey in nineteen representative groves by the Farm Bureau. This, it is explained, absorbs the first 10.49 cents per pound on the sale of all nuts produced. The average production was 1044 pounds per acre. The survey revealed that the average investment per acre in producing walnut groves is $2163.84, divided as follows: Value of trees, $406.32; improvements, $15.07; equipment, $36.36; bare land, $1706.09. Last year, one of the poorest in the history of walnut production in the county, only fifty per cent of an average marketable crop was produced. The average labor cast of $41.94 per acre was distributed as follows: Pruning, $4.58; brush disposal, $1.70; cover crop care, 12 cents; pest control labor, $5.61; cultivation, $11.12; irrigation labor, $6.36; bracing, 36 cents; harvesting, $17.40, and miscellaneous, $1.

The Judicial Council of California adopted rules recently to change Supreme and Appellate Court procedure so the wheels of justice will be speeded up. The council adopted almost entirely the rules in effect in Pennsylvania, the United States Supreme Court and the Appellate Court of New York. The changes will be effective July 1, next. One of the rules states the appellant in his opening brief must state on the first page without name, dates or details, the question involved in the appeal. The council decided to establish a "ready for submission docket" in the two courts. This will expedite the business of the courts and permit the disposition of certain classes of cases without giving them preference over others or permitting them to clog the calendars. The rules relate principally to the internal business of the courts, and also provide an outlet through which the litigants may obtain a speedy determination of cases that are appealed for delay or on insufficient grounds.

California farmers represent 85,000 of the Nation's 3,000,000 members of farm cooperatives, Dr. H. E. Erdman, professor of agricultural economics at the University of California, told members of the Public Welfare League at a meeting in Oakland recently. "For the United States, the number of farm cooperative organizations," said Professor Erdman, "representing both selling and buying groups, is reported by the United States Department of Agriculture to be approximately 11,950. In California there are more than 550 farmers' cooperative groups. During the 1930-31 crop year, California's cooperatives did a business totaling more than $250,000,000. For the country as a whole, the figure is represented by $2,400,000,000." According to Professor Erdman, the chief benefits of cooperative marketing are: Reflection back to the producer of premium for quality stuff; improvement of rate of flow of farm commodities to markets and betterment of distribution among various markets; economies from large-scale operations in buying and selling, and elimination of bad market practices.

The need of steps to insure prompt emergency hospitalization and treatment of persons injured in accidents on the State highways was emphasized recently by Theodore Roche. The statement was made incidental to the taking over of active control of the State Motor Vehicle Department by the prominent San Francisco attorney and Police Commissioner. He declared it incumbent upon the various county governments to make immediate provision for such service. In the meantime, he said, members of the department should carefully follow instructions covering first aid to the injured. He added: "Motorists and others using the highways of the State are legitimately entitled to services of this character. Under pressure of emergency, co-operation from every related service or agency should be exacted. Failure of ready compliance should be made the subject of exhaustive investigation." Efficient and courteous service to the public will be demanded of all branches of the Motor Vehicle Department and especially the Highway Patrol, charged with reduction of traffic accidents, Roche said. Establishment of radio equipment, permitting constant communication with highway patrolmen on duty, will be undertaken.

The State Chamber of Commerce has started agitation for a second lighted airway on the north-south route of California. It contends a secondary system should be installed for use when flying conditions are bad over the present line of flight.

Five civic organizations of Sacramento and Yolo counties have recommended to the State Highway Division that the new State highway bridge over the Sacramento river be built at Y street instead of on the site of the present narrow M street bridge.

Blooming California

A Bit of California Garden Scape.

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)—WNU Service.

AREAS of southern California which are normally arid, have recently burst forth in a riot of colorful wild flowers due to the unusually heavy rainfall.

California has many showcases for the display of her diversified floral wares. In the high Sierras are the snow plants, peeping inquiringly and a bit nervously through the snowcaps when the first warmth of spring moves the solid pack to mushy activity. Farther down the slopes, lichens, mosses, sundry family groups of ferns, and many varieties of wild flowers merge into the wooded lowlands, where, especially north of the Tehachapi mountains, the live oak spreads its shapely limbs and often affords protection while adding beauty to the pasture land, where herds of fat Herefords browse.

In the northern part of the state roses grow with little cultivation, but with the profusion of goldenrod in Pennsylvania. No mere bushes suffice for the wealth of blossoms. They grow on trees, often to a height of 12 feet or more, and curious results of intergrafted varieties are sometimes found in freakish but delightful array on a single tree. In Santa Cruz arbors cover the sidewalks of some of the streets, and over these roses, intertwined with geraniums, climb and rest in clusters.

Though the cultivated flowers which abound are beautiful and varied, all the way from the sand dunes, Scotch broom, and rhododendrons of Crescent City, which is almost the last outpost in California before the Redwood highway reaches the Oregon line, to Ramona's garden, in San Diego, only a few miles from the Mexican border, it is to the "wide open spaces," the desert and mountain sides of the southern part of the state, which we turn in chief appreciation.

One may see and study the snow plant under the dome of Shasta, dip into the wonderland of plant and flower life at the experimental farm of the late Luther Burbank, near Santa Rosa, or wander through San Francisco's Golden Gate park, where he finds practically every variety of flower and plant that will grow under a kindly sun.

The outstanding pride of this park is its thousands of rhododendrons. Himalayan varieties are in preponderance, followed closely by natives of California, Oregon, Washington, and the Carolinas. Especially conspicuous are the fragrantissimum, which attains a height of 7 to 10 feet, with flowers 4 inches in diameter and so fragrant that the odor can be detected from a modest group nearly a city block away.

One of the National Geographic society's expeditions to Yunnan province, China, resulted in the addition of many hundreds of species of rhododendrons to the Golden Gate park collection.

Dons Party Dress in Spring.

In the early spring California dons her party dress and looks her best. The winter rains have tinted hillside and pasture land a verdant green. In the citrus areas the delicate orange blossom fills the air with its perfume, and miles of trees stretch like milky ways as far as the eye may follow.

In other sections cherry blossoms stage an exhibition. The almond trees are indescribably lovely. The landscape is filled with color, while snow-capped peaks are seen through the tree tops.

This is cultivated loveliness; but one day, after a searching rain followed by warm sunshine, a mountain side suddenly bursts into flame—a veritable spontaneous combustion. Literally, all outdoors becomes one vast garden of flowers, until it seems there is no end to the colorful panorama.

The "cup of gold," as the Spaniards called the California poppy, is the queen of wild flowers.

And the desert! Who can look upon the desert in the spring and talk of a barren waste? Even Death valley, for ages California's bogy spot, a place to be spoken of in awed whisper, a death trap, now has tourist hotels and tent camps.

Desert vegetation exhibits its greatest growth and beauty between February and May. It includes the yucca and juniper, the creosote and mesquite, many varieties of shrub and herbage, an occasional Joshua tree, mixed with Indian paintbrush (a member of the yucca family), monkey-flowers, lupine, prickly phlox, wild buckwheat, blazing-star, sunflower, barrel cactus bloom, ocotillo, and many others, giving for a season the impression of a flower-carpeted world. In this lush period the desert literally blossoms as the rose, although the rose does not ordinarily blossom in the desert.

The term "wild flowers" does not describe some of this desert flora. Occasionally they are savage flowers, capable of protecting themselves better than any man-made laws could possibly protect them. In magnificent color, in delicacy of texture of petal, the cactus flowers are perhaps the most wonderful of the California desert blossoms. But no one ever came home from the desert with a handful of cholla flowers or a bouquet of prickly pears. "Look and leave 'em" is the safest motto, for the cactus has a fiendish defense against all comers.

California mothers no scenic symphony more marvelous than the Yosemite National park, with its mighty peaks, rugged canyons, giant trees, waterfalls tumultously spreading a protecting veil over the rocky outlines of naked clefts rising from the floor of the valley sheer a thousand feet or more.

In the giant sequoia, the sugar pine, the western yellow pine, the red and white firs, and the incense-cedar, we have in this Yosemite region one of the most remarkable groups of conifers in the world. It serves to give the park an interest and charm which gratifies the esthetic sense and stirs deeply the imagination.

A View of Contrasts.

From Artist's Point there is a fine view of the valley and its contrasts in height and depth, in verdure and flora. Near the foot of Yosemite falls, the largest and most spectacular in the valley, the blueblossom, commonly called "blue lilac," grows in profusion, the soft coloring blending with the rainbow effects of the torrent, broken in its descent to the floor of the valley.

The Yosemite National park, which embraces 1,100 square miles of "valley incomparable" and scenic mountains, offers a rich field for the botanist. So great is the range of natural conditions between foothills and mountain glaciers that one authority estimates that 1,200 species and varieties of flowers, plants, and ferns are native to this area. Though most of these are typical of the entire Sierra Nevada, many are exceedingly rare.

The fragrance of the western azalea is enhanced by abundant bloom. The delicate canchalagua, with its snowy clusters of bright, thick flowers; the taller collomia, with its dense heads of dainty, funnel-formed blossoms, almost salmon in color; the golden mimulus, or monkey-flower; countless blue flowers, such as the light-blue pentstemon, with its whorls in tall stems; tall blue forget-me-nots; tiny dark-blue collinsia; the red Indian paintbrush; the brilliant scarlet pentstemon, with lance-shaped leaves and funnel-formed corolla, about one inch long; golden buttercups—all go to form the brilliant mosaic of large sheets and pools of color on the valley levels.

The wide variety of conditions, ranging from the hot and dry slopes of the brush-clad foothills to the bleak summits above timberline, the abode of glaciers and perpetual snow, gives to the flora an exceedingly diverse and interesting character. Innumerable springs, creeks, rivers, ponds, and lakes provide suitable habitats for moisture-loving plants. Rocky outcroppings, enormous cliffs, and gravelly ridges accommodate species adapted to such situations.

The irregular topography yields southward-facing slopes, which receive the full effect of the sun's rays, as well as northward slopes, cool, moist and shady, where they are little felt. The altitude ranges from 2,500 feet in the foothill belt to more than 13,000 feet along the crest of the Sierra Nevada.

It is probable that the first white men to look upon Yosemite valley were members of the Joseph R. Walker expedition of 1833, which descended the western slope of the Sierras. This expedition apparently did not go down into the valley, and the effective discovery was not made until 1851, by members of the Mariposa battalion while in pursuit of hostile Indians.

The first white men who frequented this Yosemite hinterland were miners, sheep herders, and cattlemen. Then came surveyors and soldiers to guard the mountain meadows and forests. And, lastly, the tourist, at first a little group at long intervals, but now in throngs, to see the glories of the mountains. The first systematic reconnaissance of the region was made by the California geological survey, between 1863 and 1867.

Fullhouse sat for a long time, limp as usual. At last he stretched and rose. "Well, keed," he said. "Maybe you're right. I wouldn't let no guy pull a slow drop on me like that and get away with it. I'd set him over, I guess. But you got to have jack to pull a college gag like that. That ain't no petty larceny stuff; that's a job for these here big electricians that know how to keep a guy from gettin' a shock. You got to have plenty jack for that." He veered. "How about you'n me doing a job of prowling?"

"Where's the money in that?" Joe asked caustically.

"Plenty jack where I'd prowl," said Fullhouse proudly. "I know my lay. Just outside Washington, D. C. Big estate stuff; driveways and all that. Didn't I work for him four years? Oughtn't I know something?"

"That this Jamison you've talked about."

"Lousy with jack," said Fullhouse meditatively. "Ive seen him put twenty grand in that little wall safe behind the big picture in the living room. It's got works like an alarm clock; spring it with a can opener."

"And where's he?"

"He's down in Florida and the old woman and the brat with him. Didn't I say I worked for him four years? What do you think I've been writing him letters ever since, telling him how happy I was with him? To make a collection? I didn't see him leave grand after grand in that matchbox for nothing."

"Then—"

"Keed," asked Fullhouse coldly, "Do you think I risked myself a jolt in stir as an accessory after the fact just to give you a free ride? Think it over."

There was no more said. A day passed and three more following. One afternoon Fullhouse walked bruskly into the dingy room.

"How much jack you got?" he asked.

"I don't know; about forty dollars."

"Gimme it!" He reached eagerly for the money and was gone. In an hour, he was back, walking slowly through the door. He turned his sour eyes to Joe, until the whites showed. Then he rammed his hands deep into his pockets and fished there, at last to extract a lone ten-dollar bill which he tossed disgustedly on the bed.

Joe sensed the explanation.

"You met somebody better than you were?"

"If you'd had ten guesses, you couldn't have done better."

Joe smiled, for the first time in weeks. But seriousness soon returned.

"Well, we've got ten dollars between us."

"Have we?" Fullhouse rolled his eyes. "Well, we're going to have more. We're going to prowl that joint. What I mean, we're going to prowl it."

Joe pounded a fist into his open palm.

"I don't know, Fullhouse."

"You don't know? You're wanting jack, ain't you? What I mean, you've got to have it."

"Yes, but I've been thinking about something. Suppose we did rob that house. Suppose I got all the money I wanted and went through with everything that keeps pounding in my mind. I wouldn't be committing a crime in my own conscience if I fought back against men that have tried to send me to the chair. But what's this Jamison ever done to me? Why should I go in there and rob his house—take everything he's got?"

Fullhouse merely stood and laughed.

"Can that stuff. What the h—l; don't you owe me nothing? Where'd you be now if I hadn't come on the circus? Suppose I'd let you lay—"

"You had your own plans, Fullhouse."

"Well, suppose I did," the man said. "Suppose I came out there just to get you to help me pull a job. Does that change it any? Would that make it any sweeter for you if they was a death watch, stamping out your time-sheet up at the college? I guess them guys would wreck the Stinging Lizzie, just if you asked them."

Joe Barry shook his head; this man could draw ghoulish pictures. Fullhouse went on: "I guess I never done nothing, keeping you under cover and supporting you all this time. Oh, no, I ain't done nothing but just look after my own interests. I ain't done a thing for you. I ain't taken risks and stalled for you and kept you covered—"

"Never mind the rest, Fullhouse," said Joe huskily. "I'll go with you."

CHAPTER XII

They separated when they reached Washington, Joe to go to his usual type of cheap hotel, Fullhouse to seek lodgings in an entirely different portion of the city. He had said that this would be best; Fullhouse, once Joe had acquiesced to his demands, had displayed considerable agility of mind regarding the niceties of burglary.

For two hundred miles, he had rehearsed his man, dwelling chiefly upon the safety of the job they were about to undertake, the reward, the need for naturalness and a lack of excitement.

Joe Barry was pacing the narrow, shabby room which was to be his until night. September! Early September—He remembered sharply that this had been a month to which he once had looked forward. This week, the Dayton brothers show had begun its engagements at the various fairs. There would be as long as ten days at a stretch when the tents would remain erect. The fairs; Sue and he had talked of them often, the fun to be had around a circus when there were no moves to interfere, the exhibits to be wandered, the change from day to night broadcasting and the better programs they would be able to give, owing to the greater time possible at night for sending them out upon the air. There would be powerful stations, too, where a person could receive a worth-while reward for the extra work in getting up an unusual entertainment.

And here he paced, in the sticky heat of a colorless room, waiting for night and a job of burglary. Oh well, it was all right. Something else would have happened. His haunted eyes swept the faded room; always something happening. He turned and scowled.

"Hello, Fullhouse," he said, as the man slid through the door.

"Hello, this is a dump! Oh well, it don't make no difference. We'll be taking it easy on big jack this time tomorrow. Pay in advance here?"

"Yes."

"That's good. Makes blowing easier. All you'll have to do is grab your keister and beat it. No," he said, "I got a better idea. Leave your junk here, it ain't nothin' you'd want. Bring your keister empty. Good thing to put the cream in. Then I'll just drive you to the station, and you catch a train out of town, and I'll meet you."

"How do I know you'll meet me?"

"H—l!" exclaimed Fullhouse earnestly. "You'll have all the divvy won't you? Don't you think I want my end?" He changed his tone. "Ain't that a swell thing to say to a pal."

"Oh, I'm sorry." Joe rubbed a hand across his forehead. "I'm just a little shaky. I guess it's the heat, this room—everything."

"It sure ain't no movie set," agreed Fullhouse. "I wish I'd known. I'd of traded dumps with you. I butted into a swell joint. Carpets in the halls, radio in every room, swell bed."

"Where is it?"

"Down the street a ways. I never do know the names here. Can't even remember the name of that hotel now. One of them fancy ones. Don't make any difference; I know how to get there."

"Isn't that it, the Regis?" asked Joe, casually.

Fullhouse sat up quickly, fumbling at the afternoon paper which had fallen from his pocket. He jerked it from its place on the edge of the bed, and smirked at a penciled notation on the blank margin: "942—Regis."

"That ain't it," he said. "That's a telephone number—of the garage where I'm at." He tore off the notation and shoved it into a pocket. "Better keep it in my head instead of billboarding it like that."

"I'll do the same," said Joe. "One of us might forget."

"Yeah? Maybe so. I'll remember, though."

He put his hands behind his head then, and closed his eyes, apparently comfortable in spite of the heat. Joe sat upon the one, straight-backed chair.

Three hours passed. Once Fullhouse dropped to sleep, snoring heavily, only to awaken, as if startled, half raise, glimpse Joe still on the chair, and settle back again. At last darkness came. They left the room and went down to the little restaurant. Then back to the shabby lodging and more waiting.

Trappist Monks

The Trappist monks are a reformed order of the Cistercian order, instituted in 1662 by Armand Jean le Bouthellier de Rance. Assuming control of the abbey of La Trappe in 1660, he found it in a most deplorable condition. The main purpose was to restore the discipline of the monastery. From La Trappe this austere rule spread into other parts of Europe, where it met with such instant favor that some of the most flourishing monastic houses in the world are now those of the Trappist reformers. In the United States there are three Cistercian abbeys, La Trappe at Gethsemane, Ky.; New Mellarey, near Dubuque, Iowa, and Our Lady of the Valley, Cumberland, R. I.

Savage Internal Warfare

In 1648 the Cossacks rose against the Polish-Ukrainian lords who sought to impose upon them the Roman Catholic faith in lieu of their own Greek Catholic religion. The Cossacks fought with the utmost brutality, overcoming the Poles and torturing their leaders to death. Their Roman Catholic priests were hanged before the altars with a butchered hog on one side and a Jew on the other. When, after more than a year, this religious rebellion was put down, the Cossack leaders were punished with equal brutality.

AUCTION STARTS SATURDAY, MAY 21, 1 P. M.

JUDGE BUCK WILL SEEK RE-ELECTION

The Burlingame Advance-Star last Tuesday printed a first-page story announcing that:

"Superior Judge George H. Buck threw a bombshell into the county political setup for the August primary, when he definitely informed the Advance-Star today that he will be a candidate for re-election at that time. Judge Buck will have served 42 years as superior judge next January 2. He was district attorney of San Mateo county for eight years previous to being elected to the bench.

Last year Judge Buck was on the point of resigning owing to ill health, and said at that time when he finished his present term he would undoubtedly retire. He said today, however, that his health had so greatly improved and his friends had been so insistent, that he decided only yesterday to be a candidate for re-election.

"The bombshell comes just as some ten prospective candidates, several of whom had already annunced themselves, were on the verge of seeking the place they expected Judge Buck would vacate next January. The venerable jurist has been an outstanding figures in San Mateo county affairs for many years.

"In commenting on his decision to seek re-election, Judge Buck said today that he thought a year ago his poor health would compel him to quit even before his term had expired. He has so far recovered, he said, that he feels quite capable of carrying on for another six years. This coupled with the fact that his friends have been so insistent prompted his decision, the jurist said."

BIG CROWDS EXPECTED AT SAN JOSE ROSE FESTIVAL

Three score floats, twenty bands, fifteen drum corps, a hundred horses, a hundred vaqueros to ride them, and Governor Fred Balzar of Nevada as Grand Marshal, are outstanding features of the Santa Clara county Grand Floral Parade, which will be held in San Jose on the afternoon of May 21, at 2:30 o'clock.

An audience of a half-million, usual spectators of the floral parade, are expected to line the parade route, which will be four miles in length, beginning at McKendrie street and extending down the Alameda and into the heart of the business district of San Jose.

An additional attraction to the Fiesta this year is the mooring of the Akron at the U. S. Naval Base less than ten miles from San Jose. Those attending the floral parade can visit the base and inspect the Akron the following morning or the morning prior to the parade, it was pointed out by the committee.

"Colonial Days," the theme of the parade this year, in honor of the bicentennial of George Washington, offers an original and particular scope to the decorations of the floats. Colonial costumes and colonial floats depicting various events of history and historical fancy are being arranged for the parade.

Numerous Fiesta features have been added this year. They include the Flower Show; the Boys' Hobby Fair, which will exhibit thousands of boy-made articles; the Fiesta Junior Chamber of Commerce Olympics, which will all continue for the three Fiesta days.

The baby parade, second only to the floral parade, will be held on the afternoon of Thursday, May 19; the Fiesta Fandango night parade of "horribles" will be held on the night of May 21, following the floral parade; and "The Rose Maiden," floral cantata, will be given at the Roosevelt Auditorium on the night of May 19.

LEGION TO CARRY ON JOB CAMPAIGN ALONE

The campaign to place one million unemployed in jobs, which has been conducted since February 15, by the American Legion, the American Federation of Labor and Association of National Advertisers will now be continued by the Legion alone according to an announcement made by Albert G. Motsch, of Long Beach, state chairman of the employment and relief committee.

"Approximately 760,000 have been found or created in the national campaign," said Motsch. "The American Federation of Labor and the National Advertisers, believing that their part—that of organization and educational work which formed the background of the campaign—has been accomplished, will leave the actual work of finding the additional 240,000 jobs to the 10,000 Posts of the Legion throughout the country. The campaign has been even more successful than its most enthusiastic supporters predicted and will be carried on until the million job mark is reached.

In spite of the stern dictatorship exercised by Soviet leaders, it appears that artistic temperament is given recognition in Moscow, as elsewhere. Anyway, when a theater director named Arkanox criticised the dancing of Victorina Krieger, premiere danseuse, she bounced an inkstand off his head and got him fired besides.

Optimism is a fine thing, but we have observed that more optimists than pessimists land in the poor house.

PEA PICKERS STRIKE BRINGS RIOT SQUAD

Sheriff James J. McGrath and a number of deputies were summoned to Half Moon Bay last Monday, when about 1,500 pea pickers went on strike and congregated in the town, and for a time tied up traffic as leaders addressed the assemblage in the streets. Undersheriff Lawrence Nieri led the riot squad, armed with sawed-off shotguns and tear gas bombs. The sheriff's men were called by Constable Fred Simmons, who made two calls for aid, saying he feared the pea pickers were getting out of hand and violence might result. When the sheriff's men arrived, Nieri addressed the assemblage and told them either to return to their work or leave town. Following this demand the workers went to Arlita Park, just outside of Half Moon Bay, where a large camp is maintained for them.

The strike was called when the pea picking contractors refused to pay the workers more than 44 cents a sack, when the price last year was reported as 75 cents, residents said.

BOY SCOUTS PLAN WHIST NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

Next Tuesday evening, May 24, the Boy Scouts of Daly City will play host at a whist party to be staged in the local auditorium. As previously stated, this whist is being sponsored by the District Committee of Daly City District No. 11, Boy Scouts of America, for the purpose of securing funds to purchase additional equipment for the Daly City Scout and Cub units, and bring them up to the regulation as required by state headquarters.

Mr. Arthur J. Bodien, chairman of the District Committee, announced the appointment of Fred Collins, the "Personality Man" about town, as chairman in charge of arrangements, with the entire committee giving him every assistance possible. It has been rumored that no project in the line of entertainment is too large for Fred Collins to handle, and judging from the outcome of past activities placed under his able supervision, it is a foregone conclusion that the Scouts' whist will be successful.

It not only requires capable leadership to make a success of this affair, but also the support of every person in Daly City who is interested in seeing that our youths of today are properly trained and equipped with the fundamental ideas of citizenship, in order that they may take their places in life and fulfill their obligation to their government.

Let us all get behind Fred Collins and help him put this whist over in a big way. If you have not already purchased your ticket for the whist, you will find an eager group of youngsters waiting for you at the entrance to the auditorium. The Scouts and Cubs are endeavoring to sell as many tickets as possible, in order that they may secure additional credits. You are requested to purchase you ticket from either a Scout or Cub and help him earn his extra credits.

FITNESS OF DRIVERS AIM OF SAFETY GROUP

More effective means of determining the mental and physical fitness of automobile drivers are needed. This was one of the conclusions reached by the California Committee on Public Safety at its recent convention in Santa Cruz. The convention was devoted to a review of the traffic accident problem.

In view of many reports showing the danger of permitting habitually intoxicated or reckless drivers, or those afflicted with certain physical defects, to continue operating cars, the convention resolved that "additional authority should be vested in the Motor Vehicle Department to deprive operators and drivers' licenses when official records justify such action."

Percy E. Towne, chairman of the Public Safety Committee of the California State Automobile Association, presided at the convention. Various conclusions were reached as a result of the session, including the following:

Intensified enforcement of present laws, rather than more laws, is needed. There should be greater certainty of adequate punishment for offenders.

Traffic tag "fixing" or "squaring" is a detriment to the proper enforcement of law and is a practice which merits public condemnation. Legislation against tag "fixing" may be sought at the next session of the state legislature.

Careless use of speed causes more accidents than speed itself.

Continuous streets designated as boulevards and protected by boulevard stops signs are of doubtful value from the standpoint of safety.

Effective work in the prevention of traffic accidents is being done by the school traffic patrol, sponsored by the Automobile Association, and by the safety education work in schools through posters and lesson material distributed by the Public Safety Department of the motorists' organization.

At the age of 66, Miss Ida Greek of Pitcairn, Pa., celebrated her 50th year as a telegraph operator for the Pennsylvania railroad and received a gold medal for her faithful and continuous service.

FOREST SERVICE CLINGS TO "FORTY-NINER" NAMES

There's a simple explanation for odd names of many camp-grounds in California's national forests; they were applied by "forty-niners" and have been preserved by the forest service. Among the names suggestive of the gold-rush days are: Bacon Rind, Bear Haven, Dog Town, Hog Pen Springs, Graveyard, Hobo Hot Springs, Murders Bar, Pie Canyon, Poison Meadow, Toad Wells and Whiskey Creek.

COMPANIONS OF THE FOREST COSTUME PARTY A SUCCESS

On Wednesday evening of last week the Companions of the Forest and their friends held a costume party at Masonic Hall which proved a decided success. Mrs. Pearman, as "the bride's mother," was awarded first prize; Mrs. Cantor, "the bride," second prize, and Mrs. Hutchings, "Gypsy Fortune Teller," third prize. Others deserving favorable mention were: Mrs. Bisler as "The Merry Widow;" Mrs. Leona Brown, "The College Boy;" Mrs. Bowen, "The French Girl;" Mrs. Hahn, "The Spanish Girl;" Miss Rgers, "The Dutch Girl;" Mrs. Carle, "Auntie Doleful;" Mrs. Pezzoli, "Old-fashioned Girl;" Mr. Warehaus Brown and Charles Motts, as "The Flanigan Sisters;" Mrs. Dougherty, "The Gardener;" Wilson Brown, "The Hula Hula Girl;" and the Misses Daugherty, Bowen and Murray as school girls. Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Behre and Mrs. Bryant were also in costume.

After the grand march each one was required to do a stunt, which created much merriment. The evening was then spent in dancing, games and recitations, after which all adjourned to the banquet hall, where delicious refreshments were served. Each one expressed complete satisfaction with the evening's entertainment and requested more of such events.

NEW CHURCH IN DALY CITY

The Church of the Nazarene has branched out and has begun work in Daly City under the name "Grace Church of the Nazarene." They are located, until such time as they can build or get a better location, at the Eagles Hall, 6274A Mission street. According to the workers, they are here to stay.

They held their opening services on Sunday, May 15, with fifty-two in Sunday school. This was a remarkable attendance and they are encouraged with the prospects.

The Church of the Nazarene is an international organization with 100,000 members and over 40,00 young people enrolled in the Nazarene Young Peoples' Society.

In doctrine the church believes as John Wesley did. They believe the Bible in its entirety and insist that their members live as becoming a follower of the "Nazarene."

They have a well established church in San Francisco, located at Twentieth and San Carlos streets, from which the workers here have come.

BORN AGAIN IS SERMON THEME

Rev. John R. Stevenson of Grace Presbyterian Church will preach Sunday morning at 11 o'clock on the subject "Born Again." In this sermon he will answer such questions as, What is a Christian? How can I know that I am a Christian? And may I become a Christian? In the evening there will be a Gospel service at 7.45.

A Sunday School picnic is being arranged for May 30th, to be held in Golden Gate Park. Friends and parents are specially invited to come. Further announcement will be made Sunday morning.

FOR SALE—Fryers and eggs. 28 Como avenue.

WOODROW WILSON P. T. A. HOLDS FINAL MEETING

The Woodrow Wilson-Vista Grande Parent-Teachers' Association members held their final meeting of the year on Tuesday afternoon. There were many things to be finished up for the summer.

President Mrs. Marguerite Woodside gave a full and interesting report of the state convention recently held in Fresno.

Miss Lenard's room won the Mothers' contest, and will be given their party during the last week of school. The entertainment for the graduates will be given May 27.

Dr. F. P. Callsen gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "The Care of Children's Teeth."

The summer round-up for preschool children was held Wednesday morning. This round-up is held each spring to prepare the small children for entering school in the fall.

On Tuesday evening the officers were installed at the Jefferson Union high school, along with the officers of the other units of this district. Mrs. Spann, the retiring District President, was the installing officer. It was a beautiful and impressive ceremony. An interesting program was given during the evening.

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Virginia Callsen held a largely attended whist party at her home for the benefit of the unit.

ROAD TAX CUT TO BE STUDIED BY COASTSIDE CIVIC UNION

Meeting in Pescadero last Tuesday night in joint session with the Davenport Improvement Club, the Coastside Civic Union named a committee to investigate the feasibility of eliminating the 40 cent county road tax from the next budget. The elimination of the tax was suggested and is being urged by Dr. C. C. Thompson, Burlingame supervisor, formerly of Pescadero.

The Coastside Union adopted a resolution calling on the board of supervisors to purchase land at Montara to be used as beach parking space. The members also requested that the $1,000 alloted to the coastside fair every year be transferred to the county reserve for unemployment relief.

The Wisest Policy

Daughter: "He says he thinks I'm the nicest girl in town. Shall I ask him to call?"

Mother: "No, dear; let him keep on thinking so."

Before you criticize anybody, let's hear what you are doing to help the situation.

Put your money in a Home of your own and you will have it in the Safest Bank in the world—a bank that never fails. If properly insured, your money can not even go up in flames, or be blown away.

Invest in a home first. It will pay you big dividends in Health, Wealth, and Happiness.

Teacher: "What would your father pay if he owed the baker $15.35, the butcher $20.30, and the milkman—"

Pupil: "Nothing! He'd move."

She Lost

The teacher was testing the knowledge of the kindergarten class. Slapping a coin on the desk, she asked: "And what is that?"

"Tails," said a voice from the back row.

"I hear you have advertised for a wife. Did you get any replies?"

"Yes, hundreds."

"What did they say?"

"Oh, they all said: 'You can have mine.'"

Permanent business growth is not the result of secrets or tricks. It can be achieved only by giving full value in your particular field.

Impossible

First Stranger (at the party): "Very dull, isn't it?"

Second: Yes, very."

"Let's go home."

"I can't. I'm the host."

Hundreds of thousands of people burn Coal, because it leaves no greasy uncleanliness on the walls.

The man who never broke any of the commandments is broke himself.

Husband: "How long do you suppose I could live without brains?"

Wife: "Well, time will tell."
